Characteristics and application fields

MUSCA BLU is a granular insecticidal bait to control a wide range of fly species. MUSCA BLU has an excellent attractant effectiveness for flies with the double effect of food and sexual attractant. MUSCA BLU contains Acetamiprid, a new generation neonicotinoid active substance. It acts by ingestion and contact on the central nervous system in the post-synaptic area. Flies stop eating and died quickly. The product contains denatonium benzoate, a bittering substance that prevents the accidental ingestion by animals and children.

Instructions and dosage

MUSCA BLU must be spread over surfaces where flies usually feed themselves and the bait renewal frequency varies from one to six weeks according to the pest level and intensity. MUSCA BLU can be used both to prevent fly emergencies and to reduce fly population. Spread the bait directly from the package or from any other suitable container.

Use MUSCA BLU in and around those areas where flies represent a problem. Choose those places where flies usually stop, transit or represent a particular problem (around windows, in bathing areas, near dunghills), avoiding draughts as much as possible. In case it is not possible. In case it is not possible to spread the bait on the floor, pour it on a small piece of cardboard, on a plastic dish, or on any other similar container. The product can be used in presence of animals. Distribute MUSCA BLU, without accumulate it, at the dose of 25 g for 10 m² of surface. Place the baits out of the reach of children and pets. In case the attractant power of the baits is sufficient (especially in case of problematic infestations), it is possible to pour water or milk on them in order to make them more luring
